

TITLE: THE OBSERVER

SCENE 1: INT. APARTMENT - EVENING

A dimly lit apartment room. The room is silent except for distant ambient sounds.

A MAN enters through the front door, wearing a backpack and casual clothes. He turns on the light switch near the entrance, illuminating the room.

He hangs his key on a wall-mounted hook stand near a calendar, unslings his backpack, and sets it down onto an office chair next to the dining/study table.

He walks toward a curtained partition, steps behind it to dry his face with a towel, and returns to the main desk.

Sitting down, he opens his laptop. A yellow sticky note covers the webcam. He works for a moment before peeling off the sticky note.

He turns around, faces the wall, reaches out, and switches off the light switch board.

The room plunges into pitch darkness.

SCENE 2: INT. APARTMENT - NIGHT (BLACK & WHITE / MONOCHROME)

A sharp visual shift to a monochrome, night-vision style visual tone.

Mysterious, echoing footsteps bang against the wooden door from the outside.

The camera pans rapidly around the empty room. The room is unsettled.

The perspective moves towards the ceiling fan above.

VISUAL: A terrifying, hooded dark silhouette hangs suspended from the ceiling fan like a noose.

Abruptly, the color returns to normal. The figure vanishes. The ceiling fan simply spins quietly under soft fluorescent light.

SCENE 3: INT. APARTMENT - CONTINUOUS - NIGHT

The ceiling fan continues to spin at medium speed.

The Man sits still at his desk, staring up at the fan. His breathing is fast and heavy. He rubs his eyes, uncertain if what he saw was a hallucination caused by exhaustion.

He slowly lowers his head back to the laptop screen.

CLOSE-UP: LAPTOP SCREEN

The laptop screen is pitch black, but a small RED RECORDING DOT blinks in the top corner of a security monitoring software window.

The software displays real-time footage recorded from the laptop's uncovered webcam.

The Man moves the cursor and clicks "REPLAY - LAST 60 SECONDS."

ON SCREEN FOOTAGE:

The video plays back in black and white.

On screen, we see the rear view of the Man sitting at his desk in the dark.

Suddenly, on the video screen, a tall, dark, disfigured shadow glides out from behind the blue room curtains—moving slowly toward the back of his chair.

The shadow stops directly behind the Man, leaning down until its unseen face is inches away from the back of his neck.

BACK TO SCENE:

The Man's eyes widen in terror. His hand freezes on the mouse.

He feels a sudden, icy drop in temperature room-wide.

A faint, raspy breath echoes directly behind his right ear.

MAN

(Whispering, voice trembling)

...Who's there?

Slowly—agonizingly slowly—the Man begins to turn his head to look behind his chair.

Before his head completes the turn, the desk lamp flickers violently and blows out.

PITCH BLACK.

AUDIO: A loud, harsh sound of a chair sliding back aggressively, followed by a muffled gasp and a heavy THUD on the floor.

SILENCE.

SCENE ENDS.
